PREFACE

This is the fifth volume of an eight volume set of documented descendants of Lieutenant Nicholas Stillwell. As was the case with the ninth generation descendants, the tenth generation of Lieutenant Nicholas Stillwell's descendants were many in number. As a result, a single volume was far too large to handle and print and I found it necessary to divide the tenth generation into two part.

The difficulty that was encountered through the ninth generation descendants with identifying the point at which a given family line switched to the use of three —L version of the surname or back to the four —L version is no longer an issue of concern. Family lines appear to have settled on a version of the surname spelling and maintained consistent usage from the tenth generation onward.

I again express my deepest appreciation to those who generously shared their research with me and also to my wife, Barbara, and son, Andrew, for their encouragement and support over the past years.

A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "R. Stillwell", written in dark ink on a light-colored, slightly textured paper background.

Clark L. Stilwell

With the death of Clark L. Stilwell at Plainfield on Friday last, another comrade of the 37th Wisconsin Infantry has gone to his eternal rest. Death came suddenly after many months of prolonged illness, and a complicated illness resulting in heart failure.

Mr. Stilwell was the oldest one of a family of ten children born to William Weybourne Stilwell and Susan Rozell. He was born in Tioga County, Penn., on June 17, 1843, and came to Wisconsin with his parents in the fall of 1854 settling at West Plainfield.

When President Lincoln issued his call for volunteers, Mr. Stilwell, his father, and brother, Delos, responded to the call, Mr. Stilwell enlisting in Co. D., 37th. Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry. He soon became engaged in active combat, and at the battle of Petersburg, on June 17, 1864, this being his twenty-first birthday, received a severe bullet wound in the right hand. He was taken to the army hospital for surgical attention, and after his discharge came home on a short furlough, later returning to service with another regiment.

L. D. Stilwell Answers Last Call Friday Morning, August 11.

It is with pain we chronicle the death of our respected townsman, L. D. Stilwell, who answered the last great call Friday morning, August. 11, 1911, at about seven o'clock, after a sickness extending over a period of about two years, his death being caused by tuberculosis.

L. D. Stilwell was born in Tioga county, Pennsylvania, November 17, 1845, and in 1854 came with his parents to Wisconsin, settling down near what is now known as the Jerome Starks farm, northwest of Plainfield, where they lived for about a year, after which they moved to Plainfield, and since then the family had almost continuously resided in this immediate vicinity.

At the age of eighteen years he enlisted during the last call for volunteers and served his country from April till August, 1865, in the 52d regiment, Co. C., Wis. Vol., at which time he was honorably discharged.

Notes for Ira Adelbert De Voe

Death: His obituary reads:

Accidental Shooting

Ira Adelbert Devoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert L. Devoe, of this city, was accidentally shot at the Perry farm, at about 3:30 p. m. Sunday, Sept.13, 1903. The particulars of the sad occurrence are as follows: Mr. Devoe, who was calling on Miss Lois Perry, to whom he was engaged to be married, went out to a field near the house to shoot a hawk which had been flying about the place, Miss Lois accompanying him. Failing to shoot the bird, they started to return to the house, the young lady having passed through the gate, while young Devoe, resting the gun upon a post, made some laughing remark about its going off. Almost at the word the gun slipped from place and was discharged, the contents striking him in the right side, tearing a terrible hole in his side and throwing him about twelve feet. He was helped to the house by Miss Perry and medical aid was at once summoned, but in spite of all that could be done, he passed away at about twelve o'clock that night, being conscious to the last. His mother and other relatives and Miss Perry were with him until the end, but his father, who was at Cartwright, Chippewa Co., did not arrive until after his son's death. The deceased was born February. 7, 1883, in the town of Plainfield, where he has been brought up in the midst of friends who knew him as an energetic, upright young man, whom the entire community will miss. For his family and friends the deepest sympathy is felt by all who know of their great and sudden bereavement, and this was, in a measure, attested by the large attendance and the abundance of beautiful flowers at the funeral, which was held Tuesday afternoon. The services were conducted by the Fraternal Reserve Association, of which the deceased was a respected member, and was also attended by the Royal Neighbors in a body. The sermon was preached by Rev. Price, of Hancock, interment being in the Plainfield cemetery at Campbell Corners." (Waushara County Obituaries, n.d., <<http://www.rootsweb.com/~wiwausha/obits015.html>> (October 17, 2005)).

Notes for William H. Stilwell

Death: His obituary reads:

-Plainfield Sun -1895
CROSSED THE SILENT RIVER

Again the ruthless hand of the grim destroyer, death, has entered the peaceful home of one of our old and esteemed fellow citizens, William W. Stilwell, and wafted his frail craft over the dark and silent river. Mr. Stilwell has been a patient sufferer for years, but was not confined to the house until the past few weeks, but bore his sufferings with patience until the final end came on Friday, January. 18, 1895, when he peacefully passed away. Mr. Stilwell was born at Hector, Tompkins County, N. Y., July 10, 1820. A few years later he moved to Jackson, Tioga County, Penn., where he married Miss Susan A. Rozell, November. 15, 1841. In the fall of 1854, he came to Plainfield, where he has since resided. Ten children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Stilwell, nine of whom are still living- three sons and six daughters- C. L., L. D. and W. H. Stilwell; Mrs. Adeline Walker, Mrs. Delphine Wood, Mrs. Mary Perry, Mrs. Saloma DeVoe, Mrs. Nellie Kent and Miss Nora Stilwell. He was a man universally respected and loved by a large circle of friends and acquaintances. His wife and family have lost a loving and indulgent husband and father, and the community a true and good friend. Mr. Stilwell was a soldier in the war of the Rebellion, having enlisted in the first Reg. Wis. Heavy Art., in the fall of 1864, to serve one year or during the war. On account of disability he was discharged in the spring of 1865. At the time of his death he was a member of Walter Waterman Post G. A. R. by which organization he was buried in the Plainfield Cemetery on the Sunday following his death. The funeral sermon was preached by Rev. E. C. Booth, of the M. E. Church of this village." sleep Tuesday night while recovering from an attack of pneumonia. Her last illness was contracted shortly after Thanksgiving. She passed away peacefully.

Funeral services, with all her children attending, were held at the Moore Chapel in Tulsa at 4:00 p.m. Saturday, with the Rev. O. T. Moline officiating. Duets were sung by members of the Memorial Christian church choir of which the Roachs' daughter, Joan, is a member. Mrs. Kent was the last surviving child of, William W. Stilwell and his wife, Susan Ann Stilwell, nee Rozell. She was born at West Plainfield on January. 25, 1865, soon after her father had followed his two oldest sons to the front during the Civil War. The Stilwells were the parents of ten children, one of whom, Isabelle, died in girlhood.

Mrs. Kent attended the West Plainfield school and in 1892 was married to John M. Kent. The couple and three of their children moved to Wautoma in 1901. Her husband passed away in 1935. The Kents were parents of six children, one son, the first, having died in infancy. Those who survive are: Mrs Roach (Hattie) and Mrs. B. W. Hargis (Lucille) of Tulsa; Mrs. E. C. Pennybaker (Edith) of Cushing, Okla.; a son, H. J. Kent, now of Tulsa, and a son, W. B. Kent now of Dallas, Tex. She also leaves three nieces at Plainfield and several grandchildren and great-grandchildren in Tulsa and environs.

She was accompanied to Tulsa by her oldest son, H. J. Kent, in early October. At Joplin, Mo., en route, Mrs. Kent suffered a stroke and was hospitalized there. She rallied and proceeded to Tulsa where she spent various times in the homes of her three daughters.

Following the services at Tulsa, her remains were sent to Wautoma for interment in the family lot in the Wautoma cemetery. (Waushara County Obituaries, n.d., <<http://www.rootsweb.com/~wiwausha/obits015.html>> (October 17, 2005)).

Notes for Richard Clark Stilwell

— his obituary in the Nelson Evening Mail contained the following pertinent comments as to his character:

... the late Mr. Stilwell was always regarded as an expert tradesman and master builder, to which qualifications he added integrity and uprightness in all his dealings with his fellow man. An interesting conversationalist, with a rich fund of humour and a generous disposition, he made many friends in all walks of life who will regret the passing of one whose record in public and private undertakings will remain an inspiration for succeeding generations.” (Stilwell Family History, January 1993, p. 25.)

~~—~~HARVARD GAZETTE ARCHIVES

Barrington Moore Jr., 92, Harvard sociologist

Memorial set for November. 1

Barrington Moore Jr., a Harvard University sociologist, died in his home in Cambridge, Mass., on October. 16, 2005, at the age of 92. The cause of death was pneumonia.

Moore had a profound impact on a generation of scholars in the social sciences, many of whom were his students at Harvard where he taught from 1951 until 1979. As the editors of a Festschrift in his honor wrote: "There is a distinctive Moore-inspired approach to contemporary social science, even if there is no orthodox Moore School." This approach included a commitment to tackling important questions, an aversion to models that ignored the historical situation in which social change takes place, and a commitment to interdisciplinary work that is comparative and historical."

Former Harvard lecturer in sociology Barrington Moore, Jr., whose study of power structures—and particularly totalitarianism—helped shape the field for decades to follow, died on Sunday, October. 16, at his home in Cambridge. He was 92.

Moore, who was born and raised in Newport, R.I., first started working at Harvard's Davis Center for Russian and Eurasian Studies—informally known as the Russian Research Center—in 1948.

He officially joined the Harvard faculty in 1951 and taught until 1979. Moore published his most influential work, Social Origins of Dictatorship and Democracy: Lord and Peasant in the Making of the Modern World in 1966.

Moore's earliest scholarship was in the field of Russian politics and power. It was after publishing his 1950 work, Soviet Politics: The Dilemma of Power that Moore joined the Russian Research Center.

Even in his earliest days at the Center, Moore was a kind of synthesizer, a big picture person," according to Center Director and Feldberg Professor of Government and Russian Studies Timothy J. Colton '74.

After 1950, Moore began moving on to other, broader fields of interest.

While he remained interested in Russia, by 1960, he was already working a wider front," according to Colton. His interests took him to more general questions of society and systems of power."

These interests led to Moore's landmark 1966 work which, according to Theda Skocpol, dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and a former student of Moore's, helped to define a whole field of comparative historical study."

While Moore remained at Harvard through 1979, he usually taught only one or two classes a year and never received tenure.

One possible reason for this was Moore's desire to retain his scholarly independence, according to Visiting Professor Andrew G. Walder, a friend who sailed with Moore almost every day.

He didn't want to be tied down to all the different duties professors had," said Walder. He wanted the freedom to teach what he wanted and write what he wanted. He didn't want to play the game of University politics."

He added that Moore, who was independently wealthy and lived largely off his grandfather's trust fund, did not need the financial incentives tied with tenure.

Another theory as to why Moore never became tenured, according to Walder, was because of his fundamental disagreements with Talcott Parsons, the monumental Harvard sociologist who taught at the University from 1927 to 1973. Moore just did not see eye to eye with Parsons on intellectual matters. I don't think they got along very well," Walder said.

Moore was reclusive, sharp, and demanding in the classroom. According to Skocpol, students had to write a five-page essay to gain admission to his graduate school class. She described him as a very old-fashioned, rigorous professor, but very inspiring."

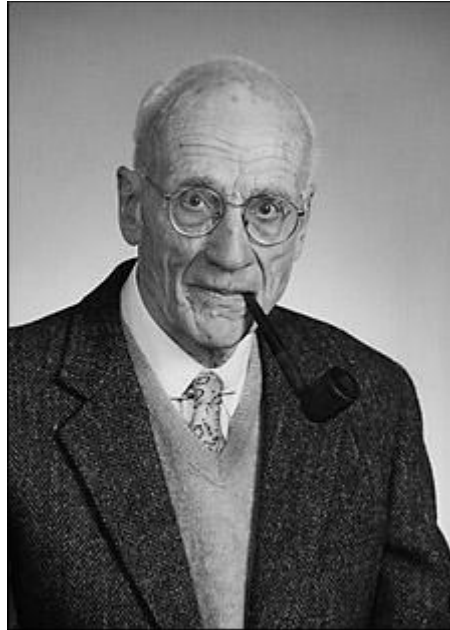

Skocpol recalled that Moore conducted class in a Socratic-totalitarian manner, cold-calling students and moving on abruptly if he deemed their answers less than satisfactory.

Moore was an avid sailor and, according to Walder, would spend around six months per year living alone on his sailboat, which was docked in Maine.

Moore was also known to invite his favorite few students to his house to dine with him and his wife, Betty, a few times a year.

—He could be very warm and engaging on those occasions when he invited you to his house,” Skocpol said. —Usually at nine o’clock sharp, he would stand up and say ‘It’s bedtime,’ and the night was over.” —We both feared and admired him and loved him,” Skocpol added.

Moore is survived by a brother, Peter Van C. Moore, of Bethesda, MD.” (The Harvard Crimson, n.d., <<http://www.thecrimson.com/article.aspx?ref=509477>>)

Moore

—Moore was a classics major at Williams College and received a Ph.D. in sociology at Yale University where he worked with Albert Galloway Keller. During World War II, he served as a strategic analyst in the OSS, along with Herbert Marcuse, H. Stuart Hughes, Franz Neumann, and many others. After the war, he taught in the interdisciplinary Social Science Division at the University of Chicago from 1945 to 1947. He then joined the Russian Research Center at Harvard University in 1947, where he remained an affiliate until his retirement.

Moore's first books - "Soviet Politics: The Dilemma of Power" (1950) and "Terror and Progress: USSR" (1954) - concerned the Soviet Union, an interest that began because of his wartime research. In 1958, he published a collection of seven essays titled "Political Power and Social Theory" that reflected on the human condition in modern society.

In Moore's most influential book, titled "Social Origins of Dictatorship and Democracy: Lord and Peasant in the Modern World" (1966), he traced the political and socioeconomic transformation of six countries that followed democratic, fascist, or communist routes to modernity. J.H. Plumb in his review for The New York Times wrote at the time, "This is a profoundly important book, as much for what it attempts as for what it achieves. ... Throughout the book, there is a constant play of mind that is scholarly, original and imbued with the rarest gift of all, a deep sense of reality. ... I expect that this book will influence a whole generation of young American historians and lead them to problems of the greatest significance."

In summarizing the book's impact, the editors of his Festschrift wrote "'Social Origins' ... helped to inspire new agendas of research and reflection in macroscopic social science. Here was a book of epochal vision and rigorous comparative inquiry, a work that explored morally compelling questions about the societal underpinnings of freedom and oppression, probing the roots of democracy, revolutions, communism, and fascism in modern world history."

Other important books followed: "Reflections on the Causes of Human Misery and Upon Certain Proposals to Eliminate Them" (1972), "Injustice: The Social Bases of Obedience and Revolt" (1978), "Privacy: Studies in Social and Cultural History" (1984), "Authority and Inequality under Capitalism and Socialism" (1987), "Moral Aspects of Economic Growth, and Other Essays" (1998), and "Moral Purity and Persecution in History" (2000).

Moore was an avid sailor and skier for most of his life and taught both after his retirement with the same great conviction and skill that he devoted to scholarly work and teaching.

His wife and collaborator, Betty Ito, died in 1992. He is survived by his brother Peter

In January of 1918, Field was assigned as a lieutenant to the Signal Officers' Reserve Corps to attend the School of Aerial Photography at Cornell University. He was promoted to the rank of major in June of 1919, one month before he was discharged.... When Lila died in 1934, Field retreated to Westfield and away from the busy life he had led with his family. He married a young German woman, Erika Segnitz, in 1936. Their marriage was a surprise to his family and to society at large, both of which disapproved of the match. The disapproval led him to withdraw further, and he and Erika divorced in 1940. He married again in 1944 to Mary Hemenway, his nurse and companion. They lived together at Westfield until his death in 1949." (Megan O'Shea, *William B. ### Notes for Lila Vanderbilt Sloane

"Series IX. Lila Vanderbilt Sloane Field, 1889-1938, n.d.
48 boxes

Lila Vanderbilt Sloane Field (1788-1934) was the daughter of William Douglas Sloane and Emily Vanderbilt Sloane. She met William B. Osgood Field in 1900 through her uncle, George Washington Vanderbilt. They were married in 1902 and had four children, William Osgood, Frederick Vanderbilt, Marjorie Lila, Mary Augusta. Unlike her Vanderbilt relatives, Lila disliked large parties and other trappings of Gilded Age society, preferring quiet times with family and a few friends. Despite this, she maintained close relationships with two opera stars of the time, Geraldine Farrar and Emma Eames. She traveled to Europe with her family occasionally, but she suffered seasickness, so did not travel as often as her husband. She enjoyed and excelled at hunting and fishing, traveling to Florida and Canada with her family to pursue these sports (her diaries provide detailed accounts of what she caught on these trips). She was also an accomplished golfer." (Megan O'Shea, *William B. —Arlene sent the following notes on Asher Minor Stilwell. (son) Roscoe "Loyd". Annie and their small son Charles, came from Missouri to California by wagon train early 1886. A photo shows him in uniform as a cable car conductor (inscription on back in handwriting of Pearl says, Dad Stilwell taken on Temple St. 1894). Later he was carpenter. Loyd and his 2 sons laid the hardwood floors in Mary Pickford's "Pickfair" estate and also one floor of the famous Huntington Library in San Marino, CA. They first lived at 457 Quebec St. (now Westlake Ave) in LA, where daughter Josie and son James were born. Later lived at 1913 Santee St. LA, until their children married. They then moved to a small rear house at the corner of E. 83rd St. and Towne Ave. before retiring to a small ranch in Monrovia CA where they raised goats and chickens. In 1918 their only dau died and left them with 3 young grand daughters to raise. Later, Annie fell and broke her hip which never healed properly, leaving her an invalid. One morning in 1928, after feeding the goats and chickens and getting Annie settled for the morning, he sat down in his rocking chair, and on folding the newspaper quietly passed away, (67 years old). Annie went to live with son James and his wife Olive in Alhambra CA. He is buried in the Lake Plot at Inglewood Park Cemetery."

—Richard Stillwell, our subject's son by his first wife, was associated with his father for several years prior to his death, and has since conducted the same very ably. The cold storage and ice plant above mentioned is one of the largest of its kind in Missouri and is very largely patronized by business men and residents of this section. Almost all of the ice consumed by Hannibal citizens is manufactured by Mr. Stillwell. Richard H. Stillwell ranks among Hannibal's most influential men and is connected with many important business enterprises throughout this section. He has carefully looked after and developed the extensive interests left by his father and is to-day considered to be one of the most successful men in this section of the state.

Like his father before him, he has at all times taken a most active interest in the development of Hannibal's commercial resources, and possessing a high character, faithful and true in all the relations of life, a reputation which has never yet been assailed, he ranks among our most highly useful citizens and men of business.

... According to the obituary of Richard H. Stillwell, he was born June 9, 1856, in Booneville, Missouri. He married Louise —"Lulu" Voorhis, daughter of Cornelius Voorhis, who was —"a pioneer of Hannibal." (See biographical note 24 below on Cornelius Voorhis.) Richard H. Stillwell died March 6, 1928 and his obituary appears in the Hannibal Courier Post newspaper on the same date. His obituary states that he was survived by 5 children: Mrs. Warfield McMein of Hannibal; Voorhis Stillwell of Florida; Amos J. Stillwell of Hannibal; Dr. John Stillwell of St. Louis; and Walter Stillwell, student in Law department of Washington University. The obituary also states that Richard H. Stillwell was survived by two brothers (actually they were half brothers), Harold Stillwell of Hannibal, and Earle Stillwell of North Carolina. Richard H. Stillwell and his wife are buried at Mt. Olivet Cemetery in Hannibal" (The Mirror of Hannibal, C. P. Greene, 1905, p. 304 (revised edition 1990)).

—The obituary of Louise —Lulu” Voorhis Stillwell, wife of Richard H. Stillwell, appeared in the Hannibal Courier Post newspaper on August 5, 1926. The obituary states that she was born in St. Louis on September 16, 1861, and was the daughter of Col. Cornelius Voorhis. The obituary states that she came to Hannibal at the age of 13. She died on August 4, 1926. Her obituary states, —The Stillwell family was reared in the old homestead which stood on W. Bird Street, where the W. B. Pettibone residence is now located. Upon disposing of the property the Stillwells removed to the corner of 6th and Center streets, where they lived for a number of years. –Scudder, Wallace McIlvaine
Publisher, mechanical engineer, lawyer, benefactor, and editor.
Also known as W.M. Scudder.

Born in Trenton, New Jersey on December 26, 1853, Wallace McIlvaine Scudder descended from a prestigious New Jersey family. His father, Edward Wallace Scudder, served as a New Jersey Supreme Court Justice and his mother was Mary Louise Drake, daughter of Supreme Court Justice George King Drake. Wallace Scudder studied at the State Model School in Trenton and then Lehigh University. In 1873, he earned a degree in mechanical engineering from Lehigh and then worked in various iron companies in Trenton. His father urged him to study law and in 1878 Scudder was admitted to the New Jersey Bar Association. Scudder practiced law in Newark until becoming associated with Henry A. Steel and Lawrence S. Mott. Together Steel, Mott, and Scudder founded the Newark Evening News. Eventually, Scudder would have sole ownership of the paper. After the Newark Evening News became successful, Scudder became a major supporter of community livelihood in Newark. He gave $50,000 to the Newark Museum Association and Scudder was named one of the first fifty trustees of the institution. Scudder also supported the Hospital and Home for Crippled Children. He was a member of a number of social groups in Newark, including the Essex Club, the New Jersey Historical Society, the Newark Athletic Club, and the Newark Music Festival Association. In 1926, Rutgers University awarded Scudder with an

Notes for Ida Quinby

~~February 2, 1903~~
Poler's Recess

The Poler's Recess, as the evening diversion during the examination fortnight is called, is now so much a regular custom that if a student has no fire-arms to aid in making a racket he borrows something for the occasion. This is what led to the unfortunate catastrophe last week when Edward Wallace Scudder '03, of Newark, N.J., fired a borrowed shotgun out of his dormitory window. It exploded and destroyed two fingers of his left hand. The pathetic part of the incident occurred the next day when his mother, upon coming to see him at the hospital in Trenton, where his wounds had been dressed, was seized with an attack of heart disease and died before she could reach her home." (Princeton Alumni Weekly Remembers, ~~February 2, 1903~~ Poler's Express", n.d., <http://www.princeton.edu/~paw/archive\_old/PAW99-00/09-0209/0209yearsof.html>).

Born in 1898 in Newark, Antoinette Scudder was the daughter of Wallace M. Scudder, the founder of The Newark Evening News. She was also the maternal granddaughter of Newark Mayor and Congressman James M. Quinby and the paternal granddaughter of New Jersey Supreme Court Justice Edward Wallace Scudder. She attended Columbia University, the Art Student's League of New York, and the Cape Cod School of Art. Her first career was in painting and Scudder won prizes for her landscapes. During the 1920s, Scudder began to have her poetry published, eventually having over thirty volumes of poetry and prose published. She also helped to found the Newark Art Club, which later became the Newark Art Theater, with her brother Edward W. Scudder. By 1933, Scudder was Vice President of the theater and her new partner, Frank Carrington, was the Director. The theater was so popular that it required a permanent home and operations were relocated to an abandoned paper mill near Millburn. This building would later be known as the Paper Mill Playhouse.

7683. Amos Vincent<sup>9</sup> Marshall [38717] (Eleanor or Ellen<sup>8</sup> Stilwell, William<sup>7</sup>, Elias<sup>6</sup>, Obadiah<sup>5</sup>, Elias<sup>4</sup>, Elias<sup>3</sup>, Nicholas<sup>2</sup>, Nicholas<sup>1</sup>), born<sup>4697, 4698</sup> 1868 in Pine Creek Township, Carroll, Virginia; died<sup>4699</sup> before 1900 in Carroll County, Virginia. He married about 1890 in Carroll County, Virginia Unknown.

Author's note: His marriage and the listed offspring are an assumption on my part. Edgar and David were living with their paternal grandparents at the time of the enumeration of the 1900 Federal Census. All of Amos' male siblings and their respective offspring have been identified. Amos is the only male amongst the male siblings who could not be identified in any census record after the 1880 enumeration. Additional research is needed to confirm this assumption

Children of Amos Vincent Marshall were as follows:

Author's note: The federal census records are confusing as they relate to the identification of the offspring of Smiley and Sarah,. The names, ages and order of the children, when examined in order of the sequential enumeration of the census records, leads you to believe that all of the children accorded to the couple may, in fact, not be their children. I am not convinced that Manda, Oates, Nora and Lucy are the biological offspring of Smiley and Sarah.

—That power took the form of Colorado's National Guard, whose salaries were paid by the business community, not the State. Their commanding officer, General Sherman Bell, began arresting union leaders, strikers, and local public officials by the hundreds. Bell prohibited local newspapers from printing any material unfavorable to the military and ordered the arrest of the entire staff of a newspaper whose editorial had offended him. In Bell's words, "Military necessity recognizes no laws, either civil or social". When a lawyer for the union sought to free the prisoners on a writ of habeas corpus, Bell responded "Habeas corpus, be damned! We'll give 'em post mortems!" The violence on both sides only intensified. After a mine explosion on November 21, 1903 killed a superintendent and foreman, Bell announced a vagrancy order that required all strikers to return to work or be deported from the district. When a bomb exploded at a train station in Independence, Colorado on June 6, 1904, killing thirteen strikebreakers, employer militias and vigilantes destroyed every union hall in the area, while General Bell deported hundreds of strikers. Although the courts eventually acquitted all union members charged with the bombing of the station and awarded damages to those who had been deported, the strike and the union were broken in Cripple Creek; similar measures in Telluride, Colorado effectively drove the WFM out of the state." Children of Sherman M. Bell (Adjutant General CONG) and Mary Effie (---) were as follows:

- 12429 i Helen H.<sup>10</sup> Bell [39610], born<sup>5622, 5623</sup> 1904 in Denver, Denver, Colorado.
- 12430 ii Theodore R.<sup>10</sup> Bell [39611], born<sup>5624, 5625, 5626</sup> 1906 in Denver, Denver, Colorado.

Author's note: The 1910 and 1930 Colorado Federal Census records list Theodore as being a daughter of Sherman and Mary. The 1920 Colorado Federal Census records Theodore as being a son. I have found no other record which would clarify this discrepancy. It was not uncommon to give a female child a male given name. I have recorded Theodore as being a daughter of the couple.

Author's note: A Theodore Stillwell was enumerated with Clarence's household in the 1930 Illinois Federal Census. Theodore was recorded as being Clarence's brother. All three of Agnes' children have been identified and I have not identified any evidence that Theodore was in fact a child of Agnes and John. I believe that the relationship recorded in the census is in error. Most likely Theodore was Clarence's brother-in-law.

The image shows two forms related to Clarence Francis Stillwell's World War I draft registration. The left form is the "REGISTRATION CARD" (Form No. 1) with serial number 1127 and order number 4847. It lists his name as Clarence Francis Stillwell, permanent home address as 100 Springdale Peoria Ill, age 33, date of birth as Nov 1885, and occupation as Salesman. His nearest relative is Mrs. Eva M. Stillwell at the same address. The right form is the "REGISTRAR'S REPORT" dated 12-5-14, describing the registrant's physical characteristics and certifying the truth of the information provided. The registrar is Blanche McBride, Local Board #2, Peoria, Ill.

Lee Stillwell Harshman (No. 12565) – His World War I Draft Registration Card<sup>6190</sup>.

Based on the total number of children born to Laura as recorded in the 1900 Federal census record, Lee is probably her son by an unknown individual.

-Kannapolis - Myrtle Elizabeth White Alexander, of Kannapolis, died peacefully on Friday, March 7, 2008. She was a homemaker, community volunteer, and the widow of Hugh Quincy Alexander, who died Sept. 17, 1989.

A celebration of her life will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at First Presbyterian Church in Kannapolis. At First Presbyterian, she participated in all aspects of worship as an active member of the church, the Margaret Goodman Sunday school class and her circle. As a young woman, she served as secretary to the Concord Presbytery and the N.C. Synod. Her Christian citizenship also included volunteer service to her community and state, which she loved. She often told friends that her career was her family and the community which helped to nurture them.

She served on the Board of the N.C. Museum of History Associates, helped to organize the Cabarrus County Museum of History Associates, and co-founded the Kannapolis History Associates. She was a member of the Roanoke Island Historical Association board of directors for 25 years. As a charter member of Clarice Women's Club, she served as chairman of the Beautification Committee, which sponsored the first project in Kannapolis; she also worked to restore the World War II G.I. House in Kannapolis.

During the years when her husband worked in the nation's capitol, she served as president of the North Carolina Society of Washington and the 83rd Congress Club. She was active in The Congressional Wives Club, where she served for more than ten years as Decorations chairman of the club and the annual First Lady's Luncheon. After her family and church, her passion was flowers; amply supplied by the National Arboretum, she enjoyed making special flower arrangements for numerous events at the Congressional Club and the White House.

Mrs. Alexander is survived by her children, Elizabeth A. Harrison and her husband, Bill, of Fredericksburg, Va.; Hugh Q. Alexander, Jr. and his wife, Jane, of Winterville; Stephen W. Alexander, of Raleigh; and William G. Alexander and his wife, Shelia, of Raleigh. She is also survived by seven grandchildren: Andrea A. McCallum and husband, James, of Columbia, S.C., Hugh Quincy Alexander III, of Pensacola, Fla., Catherine H. Lawson and husband, Marc, of Concord, Mary E. Harrison, of Richmond, Va., Margaret A. Harrison, of Cambridge, Mass., William George Alexander Jr., of Cullowhee, and Thomas E.
