2017 Spring Semester

Monday, January 23

Tuesday, January 31

7:00 p.m. • Bennett Pierce Living Center, 110 Henderson Building

Minor Goals and Activities

- Develop the capacity to think, talk, and write critically about global health issues and challenges.
- Complete a six-week supervised fieldwork experience in Senegal, South Africa, or Tanzania.
- Prepare for occupations and graduate school programs that require interdisciplinary and global perspectives, and applied learning experiences.

Eligibility

Global Health is a competitive minor, open to any Penn State student who is enrolled at the University Park campus and who has declared a major field of study.

Advising

After attending an information session, students who are interested in applying for the Global Health Minor should schedule an advising appointment to meet with the Global Health Minor Program Director, Dr. Dana Naughton. Thirty-minute advising sessions may be arranged by contacting the staff of the Department of Biobehavioral Health at 814-863-7256. Application materials will be provided to students at the time of meeting.

Applications are due February 15, 2017
