

The Peace Science Society

The Peace Science Society (International) operates as an objective, scientific organization without political, social, financial or national bias. Its objectives are to foster the exchange of ideas and promote studies focusing on issues of peace and conflict utilizing tools, methods and theoretical frameworks drawn from the social and natural sciences, law, engineering, and other disciplines and professions. A primary concern of the Society is the improvement of social science theory as it relates to world politics. Membership in the Peace Science Society is open to all individuals.

South Carolina 2007

The 2007 Peace Science Society meeting will be held in Columbia, South Carolina, November 2-4. The Walker Institute of International and Area Studies, the College of Arts and Sciences, and the Department of Political Science at the University of South Carolina will be our hosts. Zaryab Iqbal will serve as local coordinator.

Walter Isard Award for the Best Dissertation in Peace Science

The Walter Isard Award for the Best Dissertation in Peace Science honors outstanding contributions to the scientific knowledge of peace and conflict and carries a value of $1000. Competition is open to students of any nationality who successfully defend a doctoral dissertation in any field on the subject of peace science, conflict behavior, international relations, or a related topic. The winner is selected on the basis of the importance and scientific significance of the dissertation with respect to the field of peace science and its contribution to the understanding of international behavior more generally. This year, we will present the Isard Award to dissertations completed in the period between April 1, 2004 – March 31, 2006.

Nominations for the 2008 award - open to dissertations defended between April 1, 2006 and March 31, 2008 - are now being accepted. The deadline for those nominations is June 1, 2008.

Stuart A. Bremer Award for Best Graduate Student Paper

The Stuart A. Bremer Award is presented to the author or authors of the best graduate student paper delivered at each year's Peace Science Society meeting. Papers eligible for consideration include those associated with poster presentations made at the meeting as well as those presented at the meeting's regular sessions. Co-authored papers may be considered for the award, but only if all of the authors are graduate students at the time of the meeting.

The author or authors of the winning paper receives travel support of $1000 to present the paper at the following year's Network of European Peace Scientists meeting. The 2007 meeting will be held in June at the Jan Tinbergen Institute in Amsterdam. The award amount is for the paper: in instances of multiple authors, the allocation of the $1000 travel support will be determined by the authors. The winner will be selected on the basis of the paper's potential scientific significance and its contribution to the study of peace science. An ad hoc three-person committee consisting of members of the Society will determine the winner.

Nomination must be made by one of the authors of the paper.

For consideration, papers must be sent electronically (and preferably as a pdf file) to Glenn Palmer (gpalmer@psu.edu) by December 4, 2006.

The winning paper will be announced in January, 2007.
