MEET ISABEL

Isabel is a Paterno Fellow and Schreyer Scholar majoring in Medieval Studies, History, and Art History, with minors in Latin and Architectural History.

Isabel has studied abroad in Italy. She was an intern at Museum Kunst der Westküste in Alkersum, Germany. She has also interned with Vernice Progetti Culturali in Siena, Italy, and now works as an orientation leader with the Penn State Office of Global Programs.

She co-founded the Mack Brady Soccer Fund, for which she also volunteers, in addition to serving as a member of multiple THON committees.

To read more student stories, visit LA.PSU.EDU/CHANGEMAKERS
Medieval Studies

Unique Learning Opportunities

- Small class sizes
- An interdisciplinary field that ranges widely across periods and geographies

Enrichment Experiences

- Internships in a range of areas depending on your interests, including museum curatorial work, archival preservation, and academic publishing; and in societies dedicated to recreating and examining material aspects of medieval life
- Independent research

Study Abroad

- Faculty-led summer programs in Besancon, London; Reggio Calabria, Rome; and Todi, Italy
- Semester-long program in Florence, Italy called Ancient and Medieval History of Rome
- Penn State offers more than 400 study abroad programs to allow students to tailor their experience to their interests. A complete list can be found at global.psu.edu/students.

Multiple Pathways

- Benefit from a uniquely interdisciplinary curriculum
- Easy to combine with a second major

Possible Career Paths

- Publishing
- Law
- Archivist
- Writer
- Business
- Medicine
- Attorney
- Librarian
- Museum Curator
- Secondary- and College-Level Teaching

To learn more about the major, visit MEDIEVAL.LA.PSU.EDU.