THE GLOBAL HEALTH CASE COMPETITION

NEXT COMPETITION: MARCH 2020

Six students from Penn State College of Medicine, Dickinson Law, and University Park campuses will participate in the International Emory Global Health Case Competition on March 14, 2020 in Atlanta. The top-ranking team will be awarded a cash prize.

ABOUT THE COMPETITION

Universities from across the globe address worldwide health issues and develop innovative solutions for improving health systems. Each team presents their projects to a panel of experts from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), academia, State Health Departments, private industries, and nongovernmental organizations.

YOU CAN REPRESENT PENN STATE IN ATLANTA

We are seeking six Penn State students who are interested in global health. Students must be available to meet (in-person in Hershey or via Zoom) and must be able to complete weekly team assignments from January through March, especially during March 7-9 and 12-15.

JOIN THE PSU TEAM: APPLY BEFORE NOV. 21

Complete the online application along with a 500-word essay describing your experience and explaining why you want to participate in the competition. To access the application, visit: tinyurl.com/CompeteIn2020
